

SOPHIA (Rebecca Sargent)

Bio: About the Author

Sophia is a professional hereditary psychic, astrologer, and spiritual teacher with more than 30 years of experience in the United States and Japan. From the age of three she learned Psychic Reading and other forms of divination from her grandparents in Aberdeen, WA. Sophia is also the author of twelve published books; some of which have been translated into eleven different languages. Sophia has had two long-running columns; Emerging Women (on women's spirituality) in The New Times, and an astrology column in Japan in MiniWorld Magazine. Sophia is currently represented for film rights to one book, Hex The Ex, for Flatiron Films, John Kapral producer), and her Little Book of Love Spells was prominently placed in the movie Bride of Chucky. Sophia has appeared on Northwest Afternoon, a regional live TV talk show, numerous times and she has been a frequent radio guest on an amazing number of radio shows. Many of the shows she has been on are syndicated or top rated programs. Sophia has been featured on online chats with ABC.News.Com, American Online and CompuServe Interactive Radio. In terms of appearances, Sophia has had hundreds of book signings, workshops, lectures and she currently teaches seminars on a wide range of metaphysical subjects. Her workshops frequently combine key elements of Eastern and Western spiritual traditions. Sophia has presented a number of times at the Book Expo of America in New York City, Chicago, and Los Angeles as well as at the Latino Family Festival in Los Angeles (a number of her books are available in Spanish.) Sophia is also a frequent guest at Alternative Spirituality festivals such as Pantheon. Many different people from a wide variety of groups, countries and backgrounds have attested to the power, accuracy and transformative intensity of her writing, her teaching and especially of her psychic consultations. Aside from being an author, lecturer and psychic, Sophia is also a professional photographer. She furnished about 300 photographs for the book Global Ritualism and has contributed images to many other journals such as New Age, Eye Ai Magazine, City Life News, Via Magazine, Tokyo Today, The Japan International Journal, The Japan Times Weekly and The Tokyo Weekender. Sophia (aka Rebecca Sargent) lives in Seattle where she gives psychic and astrology readings out of Stargazer's Bookstore as well as out of her Forest Yurt, in her magical garden. Rebecca is married to Denny Sargent (author and university instructor) and they have one teenage son, Forrest, who has autism. Together they also run a non-profit, Autism Advocates. In her spare time, Sophia is also a ceramic artist and avid world traveler.

GENERAL QUOTES RE: SOPHIA (Rebecca Sargent)

Interview from : Retreats, Innovative personal spaces, Sophia in her Yurt:

Life without the Forest Yurt is almost unthinkable now. It's like a private domain, but one I like to share,' said Sophia. 'There is nothing here, but the stillness in your heart.'

- by Kennan Knudson: The Seattle Times Sunday edition

.The best psychic! Sophia is the most accurate psychic we've seen and the only hereditary psychic we've heard of! Her fortune telling and psychic classes, her astounding psychic readings, her psychic books and her many hexes and spells are not to be missed!"

- Tokyo Today Magazine, Tokyo Japan

" (Re; Sophia)...think Charmed, Sabrina the Teenage Witch and Practical Magic..."

- Cosmopolitan Magazine

'Sophia believes that women contain deep reservoirs of wisdom and power-evidenced in female fertility and intuition-which some people over the centuries have called magic. The spells in her book could help you get in touch with this ancient power, she says, but in a wickedly fun sort of way. This could be the most fun since sticking pins in voodoo dolls.'

- First for Women National Magazine by David Saks

'Seattle psychic and author Sophia has seen the writing on the crystal ball. She's obviously realized that folks here in Software Acres are too busy working and drinking coffee to do much else. In keeping with the times, Sophia offers up easy-to-perform spells to keep a leering sexual harasser at bay, boost sales figures or tame the Office Temp from Hell.'

-The Seattle Times by Kimberly Marlowe

'A new book of spells helps even the score at work:

To survive in the work place, we all need an edge. Some fall back on experience. Others use intelligence as their crutch. But not you-because now you've got good old-fashioned hocus-pocus. Namely 'The Little Book of Office Spells' by world renowned psychic Sophia.'

- Waterloo-Cedar Falls Courier, IA by Karris Golden

'How did this psychic get into the business of trying to solve office woes? Easy, Years ago, she, too, was part of the day to day office grind, working as a health care administrator and faced with job-related angst like the rest of us. But unlike the rest of us, she was able to do something about the same old, same old. Her grandparents both psychic, had taught her a bunch of spells and hexes which she decided to update and test among the workaday challenged.'

- The Advocate Newspaper –Connecticut by Nadia Lerner

'I asked her how the psychic process works. (she said)É' I go into a light trance-pick up images from your subconscious-and read the images I see,' she explains, 'I can see symbols, people, situations-its very picturesque, like a big screen.' People understand that she is a real psychic when she can see the things that they love, but are usually shocked that a complete stranger is telling them so many personal things.'

- Tokyo Today Magazine, Tokyo Japan

' Many children are lucky enough to have families that nurture their talents. Sophia, a spiritual teacher and the author of Fortune telling with Playing Cards, was only three when her family began encouraging her psychic abilities.'

- Fate Magazine by Corrine Kenner

'Sophia: My grandfather would take me into antique stores to 'read' items, tell about the history, who owned them and so on. I never really like this sort of thing, though even today I am quite good at it. For the most part, I hate junk stores because it's like hundreds of people are calling out to me at once. Sounds creepy, doesn't it?'

- The New Times, Seattle WA

'If you need to work a little magic on a relationship, the 'Little Book of Hot Spells' by Sophia has spells you can try to heat up the romance.'

- Sarasota Herald-Tribune, Sarasota, FL

The Little Book of Money Spells

'The Little Book of Money Spells': The author billed as a professional psychic, offers charms and spells that aim to lure wealth and good fortune. One tip: put coins with the dates of leap years on your kitchen ledge while chanting 'Faerie folk never seen, Bring us coins from the realm between! ' People with bad money luck are advised to head to a nearby willow tree at midnight when the moon is dark, imploring 'Hear my spell, Hear my rune, Unchain my wealth, Unhex me soon!' Sounds Zany, but compared with some of the investment books that cross my desk, it's positively sane. Happy Shopping.'

- Detroit News Money -Detroit, MI by Melissa Preddy

The Little Book of Office Spells

'Want to change your luck on the job? Take a proactive, fanciful approach-by casting a spell from The Little Book of Office Spells. The tongue in-cheek spells and hexes written by internationally renowned psychic Sophia, give you all the help you need to turn things to your advantage in the office; From the 'Snag A Raise Spell' to the 'Photocopier Hog Spell', you have the power to make a change. '

- Working Girl Magazine

'Spell it Out: In keeping with the times, Sophia offers up easy-to-perform spells to keep a leering sexual harasser at bay, boost sales figures or tame the Office Temp from Hell.'

- The Seattle Times-

Planet Northwest Feature by Kimberly Marlowe

'Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble: A new book of spells helps even the score at work. To survive in the work place, we all need an edge. Some fall back on experience. Others use intelligence as their crutch. But not you-because now you've got good old-fashioned hocus-pocus. Namely 'The Little Book of Office Spells' by world renowned psychic Sophia.'

- Waterloo-Cedar Falls Courier by Karris Golden

'Wish your Scotch tape dispenser and stapler would never 'walk off your desk' again? Had just about enough of a particular office pest? Want to bid that odious photocopier hog a fond farewell? Relax, Help may be on the way, psychic Sophia delivers a cauldron full of hexes.

- Advocate Newspaper, Connecticut by Nadia Lerner

'In the Little Book of Office Spells, author Sophia introduces spells and hexes to uplift even the worst work-place. Among them: Psycho Temp from Hell Hex, Pay Raise Power Spell, Photocopier Hog Spell. '

- Cincinnati Enquirer, Cincinnati, OH

'Eye of newt, tongue of cheekÉSophia tells you just the right combination of herbs, oils, and chanting to get you what you need. And we're pretty sure she's serious about this stuff, too. Either way, it's fun.'

- Dayton Daily News- Dayton, OH

' Sophia suggests hex recipes to stop office backbiting, get a raise, guarantee a successful office party freeze a computer virus before it bites, guarantee success at a power lunch and more. She says she's only kidding-maybe-and we believe her.'

- San Bernardino County Sun, San Bernardino, CA

'Career Review: Scatter a few herbs, light a candle, mutter a few choice words and the office photocopier hog will vanish like toner. Right? Sure, says Sophia.'

- San Jose Mercury News, San Jose, CA

'Sophia suggest hex recipes to stop office backbiting, get a raise, guarantee a successful office party freeze a computer virus É..

- Dallas Morning News, Dallas, TX

'Years ago, she, too, was part of the day to day office grind, working as a health care administrator and faced with job-related angst like the rest of us. But unlike the rest of us, she was able to do something about the same old, same old. Her grandparents both psychic, had taught her a bunch of spells and hexes, which she decided to update and test among the workaday challenged.'

- Life & Style: Advocate Newspaper, Connecticut

'Short Takes to Conjure up a raise. Here's the edge you need to help you get ahead at work: It includes 'Snag a Big Raise Spell,' 'Get the Boss Off My Back Hex,' 'Get the Day Off (without getting caught) Spell' and the 'Sell Sell Sell Spell.' Our favorite:' The Really Stupid Customer Hex.'

- Birmingham News, Birmingham, AL

The Little Book of Hexes for Women

'Battle of the Hexes –Here are ways gals can beat 'jerks' spelled out Ladies, get back at all those nasty, ill-mannered jerks who make your life misery by casting a hex on them. Author Sophia tells you how in her spellbinding book.'

- Sun (National Tabloid)

'Tap into your magic powers. These spells require no bubbling cauldron or eye of newt. Instead, they're brewed with doses of wit and humor, and intended only to take the sting out of problems.'

- First for Women

'Comebacks to the world's oldest lines. But if he absolutely refuses to leave you alone, try this remedy from Sophia's

'Little Book of Hexes for WomenÉ.'

- The Charlotte Observer, Charlotte, NC

- Cosmopolitan Magazine

' Pocket-size hardcover takes a fun look at ways to sharpen Cupid's aim and to otherwise influence fate.'

- Citizen Tribune-Morristown, TN

'This week we love: Sophia. Because she writes the Little Book of Hexes and offers hexes for women like the 'Hex for People Who Leave You Waiting.' Because she writes the Little Book of Love Spells. And especially because of the 'Talk Dirty to Me Spell.' Grrr.'

- The Seattle Weekly, Seattle, WA
This Week We Love Feature

'Love Slaves and More: Some of the karma that needs adjusting may demand spells of the hearts-and-flowers variety, rather than hexes.'

-The Seattle Times Planet Northwest by Kimberly Marlowe

'Most of Sophia's hexes and spells are easy to do and use common items like pens, candles and various oils/spices. You don't need to search for bat wings or use gross things like lizard guts or roach droppings.'

-The Honolulu Star-Bulletin by Michelle Ramos

'Love spelled 'l-o-v-e', love spells are cast with the help of Sophia's The Little Book of Love Spells.'

- The Associated Press

' So you need something that packs more punch than a Hallmark card to snare your valentine? The book is packed with fun potions and spells.'

- The Boca Raton Magazine-Boca Raton, FL

'Spell-bound: Would you believe a local connection to 'Bride of Chucky,' Universal Pictures box-office hit? The book sitting on the bedside table of Tiffany (the character played by Jennifer Tilly) is ' The Little Book of Love Spells '.

- The Seattle Times & Post-Intelligencer) by Jean Goden

Fortune in a Coffee Cup

Television & Online Appearances

I have been a frequent guest on northwest afternoon, a regional live talk show. My most popular show was MONEY SPELLS. I have returned multiple times to do a money spell follow-ups. Viewers have called in after I have appeared and attributed their lottery wins to my spells. I also have done many psychic readings for the audience, and found missing objects.

Articles & Columns Written

I was a Columnist for two different magazines. The New Times a monthly regional new age magazine where I had a column for three years titled Emerging Women. Later the name was changed to Sacred Feminine.

'THE NEW TIMES is the preeminent 'New Age' newspaper in the Pacific Northwest part of America. Published in Seattle, it is widely distributed in the region and in Canada and copies can be found all over the USA. For several years Sophia has regularly contributed to The New Times in the form of a column called EMERGING WOMAN whose purpose is to discuss and present important ideas, issues and teachings concerning female spirituality. Here are a few of her many columns:'
